Release dates announced for June quarter CGPI and PPI

On Friday 10 August, Statistics New Zealand issued a media release announcing a delay in the publication of the Capital Goods Price Index (CGPI) and the Producers Price Index (PPI) for the June 2007 quarter.

The delay was due to an internal review, which identified errors that required revisions to be made to Statistics New Zealand's previously published CGPI and PPI data. The review is in the process of being finalised and the extent of these revisions has been determined, allowing the CGPI and PPI to be released for the June 2007 quarter.

Statistics New Zealand is therefore announcing that:

- The CGPI for the June 2007 quarter will be released at 10.45am on Friday 7 September. There will be no media conference.
- The PPI for the June 2007 quarter will be released at 10.45am on Monday 10 September. A media conference will be held for this release.

Any revisions to previously published data will be released with the June 2007 quarter data.

No other releases require immediate correction. Any consequential changes from the revision of the price indexes will be included in the next scheduled releases for Quarterly Manufacturing Survey, Quarterly Building Activity Survey and Gross Domestic Product, as these have been deemed not significant.

Statistics New Zealand regrets any inconvenience the delay in the release of these statistics may have caused.
