

2001 Census of Population and Dwellings Submission Questionnaire

Before preparing your submission, please refer to the Statistics New Zealand report entitled: 2001 Census of Population and Dwellings: Preliminary Views on Content. This provides background information that will help you make a submission. Copies are available from Statistics New Zealand, and from public libraries. Of particular relevance is Chapter 4 of this report, which outlines the criteria which topics must meet for inclusion in the census.

Requirements:

Each submission must be accompanied by completed copies of the submission cover sheet which contains: Details of Person or Organisation Making the Submission, Contact Person and the Authority to Release Information questions. These are on page 177 and 178. If additional copies of the questionnaire are required, then please photocopy the required pages or ask Statistics New Zealand to send them to you.

Information and help:

Additional copies of the 2001 Census of Population and Dwellings: Preliminary Views on Content report can be obtained from any Statistics New Zealand office. The report is also published on the internet.

Reporting back:

Once a submission has been received by Statistics New Zealand, a letter acknowledging its receipt will be sent to the person or organisation making the submission.

Each submission will be considered in the consultation round to formulate the final content of the 2001 Census. Statistics New Zealand's final decisions on the topics to be included in the 2001 Census will be sent to all those who have made submissions.

Completing the submission questionnaire:

So that we can evaluate your submission thoroughly, please ensure that you answer all questions.

Each submission should be about only ONE topic. For example, if you want to propose the addition of a topic and the removal of another, please make two separate submissions.

The submission form provides space for you to write your responses to our questions. However, if there is not enough space in some places for you to complete your response, then you can attach separate sheets of paper where you need to. Please ensure that any attached sheets are clearly marked with the question number and topic to which they belong.

Please note that the list of topics considered by Statistics New Zealand for inclusion in the 2001 Census is set out in Chapter 5 of the publication 2001 Census of Population and Dwellings: Preliminary Views on Content.
